Andrew Rothman Resigns As Director Of Public Affairs

Chairman John S.R. Shad announced today that Andrew L. Rothman will resign as Director of the Office of Public Affairs in March in order to accept a corporate communications position in California.

"Andy Rothman has served with distinction as the Director of Public Affairs for the Commission," Chairman Shad said. "He has performed his demanding responsibilities under three Chairmen over the years. We will miss Andy, and we know that he will continue to excel in his new position."

Mr. Rothman, 42, joined the Commission as Director of Public Affairs in July 1976. Prior to that he had been a senior staff aide to a U.S. Senator for six years and a newspaper reporter in Ohio, New York and New Jersey for five years.

A native of New York City, Mr. Rothman majored in communications at the American University in Washington and received an MBA degree from Loyola College in Baltimore.

Mr. Rothman will leave the Commission March 16 and will begin work as Director of Corporate Communications for Advanced Micro Devices in Sunnyvale, California on April 2. His successor has not yet been chosen.
